• OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

February 10, 1976

TO THE CLASS OF 1976:

There is a temptation to use a letter to the graduating class as a final word in your education, or as the first word in your future. But such nonsense is easy to resist for there is no first, no final, in the continuum of education.

Let me, instead, express some hopes that you have learned, and will keep learning, the habits of curiosity, recognizing that the act of real questioning implies the energy to seek an answer. But may you also never be satisfied with an answer, but rather let question lead to question, so that finally the pursuit becomes overtaking and more important than an arrival.

We have a fierce pride in what you have done here, and happily anticipate the work you will continue in the hereafter. And perhaps, too, we can hope that you of Downstate may echo Little Gidding of T.S. Eliot:

> "We shall not cease from exploration
> And the end of all our exploring
> Will be to arrive where we started
> And know the place for the first time."

Keep the faith and go in peace.

Sincerely yours,

Calvin H. Plimpton, M.D.
President

• COLLEGE OF MEDICINE
Office of the Dean

To the Class of 1976

I was asked to write "a brief inspirational letter" for your year book. Such a message is superfluous. As you conclude four years of hard work and study and as you make a quantum leap in responsibility and receive the privilege of dealing with human health and happiness, the title of physician should be all the inspiration you need.

What I would rather write is a letter of exhortation. In an era when traditional values seem to be abandoned and rediscovered repeatedly it is neither mawkish nor trite to dwell on the grandeur of medicine. I realize that the behavior of some has tended to diminish the good name of your chosen profession, but I still feel deeply that the life work you have chosen is both noble and ennobling. My exhortation to you is simply that you live up to the proud traditions of humaneness and dedication which are the hallmarks of medicine at its finest.

I would remind you, too, that to serve well, you must live your life as my old anatomy professor used to instruct my class, "growing older, always learning." May the love of people be a characteristic that distinguishes you as a graduate of the Downstate College of Medicine and may your actions as a physician always reflect a growing sense of pride in the school that did its best to enable you to walk the corridors of medicine with wisdom and dignity.

Congratulations on achieving your goals to the present and best wishes for a genuinely gratifying career ahead.

Sincerely,

Leonard Laster

Dear Dr. Parnell,

I am sorry to inform you that I have not selected your institution as my future medical school. This year, there were many medical schools competing for my attendance and the final choice was one I found difficult to make. This is in no way a reflection on your institution's program, which is of the highest quality.

I wish you and your program the best of luck in the future. Please contact me if I can be of any help to you in your pursuit of quality medical teaching.

Sincerely yours,

BEAT THE CLOCK

AN OB-GYN ADVENTURE GAME

Object: To draw 80 bloods on the Gyn-Oncology wards, in 30 minutes and still be able to make it to rounds at 8:00 A.M. Players are challenged by a lack of cooperation from the housestaff and nurses and by the necessity to be clean shaven and in ties by 8:00 A.M.

Players: These students unfortunate enough to rotate through K.C.H.C. for their Ob-Gyn clerkship, a group consisting of inconsiderate, callous ("you are not here to sleep, if you want to sleep go home)" Ob-Gyn housestaff, an unsympathetic faculty, gravely ill oncology patients, several nasty night nurses are also included in the game.

Materials: 80 sterile syringes, 400 multicolored blood tubes, 400 blood slips, 400 alcohol wipes, 2 Penrose drains which function as tourniquets, 1 electric razor, 1000 micropipettes, 1 centrifuge and 1 string bow tie.

Rules: 1. Students are not allowed to begin drawing blood until 7 A.M. except on those patients, who have had hematocrit readings Q4H for at least 4 weeks post operative. Blood letting (I mean drawing) may be done on these patients immediately following the last hematocrit reading. 2. Students are not allowed to draw blood from veins below the arms. A) No blood may be drawn from arms with IV's. 3. Students are not allowed to wake up housestaff for assistance. 4 Students must be at 8:00 A.M. rounds, clean shaven and with string bow tie in place (bow tie cannot be multicolored or extend past the midclavicular line). 5. Students who cannot find the vein in 4 attempts or less will have to repeat the game in the summer.

Winner: The person who gets through 6 weeks without angering a house-officer, showing up late for rounds or finds out the course director's real name. Those who learn nothing but get through without trouble are also considered winners.

TOP DRAFT PICK

"This is Marv Albert at Downsville Medical Center, where the annual draft for deans is being held. With me is Dr. Bringdown, head of Downsville, who will announce their number one draft pick. I give you Dr. Bringdown."

"Hello fans, as you know by virtue of our last place finish on the national board exams, we get to pick first in the draft of deans. We select Louie Lassitude, a 4' 0" dynamo out of NIH who will really put pep into our program. Not only that, Louie has promised to put Astroturf in the stadium and will be a valuable asset to the team."

"Dr. Bringdown, critics have said that the stadium will crumble around the Astroturf, and that what you really need is a new crop of ball players to lead your school to success. Will you comment on that?"

"Marv, the problem with the school is the location. With better housing, better conditions, better security, we could get the ball players we need. Louie Lassitude will move us forward with his stupendous new Master Plan."

"Master Plan?"

THE ADVISOR

"Good morning Dr. Sapman, I'm a 4th year medical student, Mike Mediocre, and I have some questions about internship that I hope you can answer. Based on my record, it seems that my strongest point is that I'm outstanding at being average. Where should I apply?

Dr. Sapman, (in his creased blue searsucker suit, string tie, with his brown wing tip shoes up on the desk) pulled at his moustache and asked, "Where do you want to go?"

"How about Mass General, Dr. Sapman?"

"You could apply there," he replied.

"What about Moffit in San Francisco?"

"Yep", he said.

"How about Grady Memorial Hospital?", I asked.

"They have a good program," he said.

"Well, what are my chances at those places, Dr. Sapman."

"Better than some, not as good as others," He answered.

"Thank you Dr. Sapman, you've been so helpful".

"Don't mention it Mike," he said. "If I can answer any other questions, be sure to come back again."

TRAUMA

"Welcome to the trauma service. I'm Dr. Limb, the chief resident. This is a busy service and during the next four weeks, you will learn the essentials of emergency treatment of trauma. While I do the surgery with the housestaff, you will be the backbone of the program. You will learn to draw blood, start IV's, change bandages, debride decubitus ulcers, get plaster on your hands, and learn to clean it from under your nails. The type of experience you will get varies with what comes in. Last month's group was particularly fortunate to have had the double plane crash, followed by the subway derailment. We're lucky to have a great many shooting, stabbing, and rape victims each day. My contacts with the local police have suggested that several gang rumbles are a virtual certainty in the next two weeks, so the patients should come flowing in. We might even get lucky and have a Mafia gang war soon. It's nice to have you on the service. Think of us as a team, so when you're driving down the street and see that little old lady struggling across the street against the light, be considerate of your buddies on call with nothing to do.

Remember, I make up your grade."

THE ELEVATOR OPERATOR

I ran across my buddy, Sam the elevator man from K.C.H.C. the other day. "Sam, how are things at A-building lately." "Things have been rough," he told me, "I'm on the day shift now and I don't get a chance to go up to the roof much and see the boys. My big radio isn't working well and my tape deck doesn't fit into the crowded elevator, so working conditions are intolerable." "Can't you switch to the night shift," I inquired, "at least it should be slower." "Then I'd have to stay awake all night and carry those inconsiderate medical students taking blood gases from the 7th floor to the C-11 lab all night. They're getting real smart and now know all our hangouts. If the medical students didn't bother us with these blood gas trips, a man could get a good nights sleep." Why don't you switch over to the C-building." "That would be worse," he said. "Then I would be up all night carrying medical students who are wheeling trauma victims to the O.R. all night."

"Isn't it a shame," I said, "that those hot shot doctors think you have nothing better to do than run an elevator up and down all day."
